

Hi, my name is Jodi Briggs and I am the Principal at Our Lady of the Presentation Catholic School. I earned a Bachelor of Science Degree in Elementary Education from the University of Missouri in Kansas City with an emphasis in History and earned a Master's Degree in School Leadership (MASL) from Baker University. I am Missouri certified in Elementary Education and K-12 Administration. I grew up in Christ the King Parish in Kansas City and graduated from Archbishop O'Hara High School. My husband Paul and I have been married for nineteen years and are proud parents of three active boys. Our oldest is a recent graduate of Presentation School and begins his high school career at Archbishop O'Hara High School this year. Our middle son is currently a seventh grader at Presentation and our youngest is in Pre-K at Presentation's Early Childhood Center. We have been parishioners at Presentation since moving to Lee's Summit fourteen years ago.

I began my career eighteen years ago at St. Thomas More Catholic School where I taught for six years before working part time at Boone Preschool when my children were little. In 2000, I returned to teaching full time at Presentation where I taught middle school religion, social studies and computer science. I left Presentation to assume the Assistant Principal position at St. John LaLande Catholic School in Blue Springs where I worked for four years.

I work closely with the staff, parish and community to continue the tradition of academic excellence and faith development that are characteristic of Presentation School. As Principal, I strive to make every decision in accordance to what is best for the students. I am very excited to continue my service as principal at Our Lady of the Presentation.
